Chatman's Bakery - Pride in tradition

Chatman's Bakery has been an intimate part of family households in Newfoundland since 1979. Why? Because Chatman's Bakery is proud to offer their customers a TRUE homemade product. One glance and you can see the genuine handmade look, but savour just a single taste and you will know these items are not manufactured on an automated mechanical assembly line.

These Newfoundland treasures are still made with love and pride; scaled by hand, spread in pans by mothers and grandmothers, carried in and out of ovens, iced and cut, and packaged by hand. It's hard work!

So why do we choose to continue this tradition? Because we know it is this love, attention and pride that has built the Chatman's Bakery brand. A tradition that we are proud of and our consumers are thankful for.

And you too can be proud because by participating with your local fundraising organization you are not only supporting your local community or town, you are continuing to provide local employment for our province.

Thank you kindly for supporting both our business and your local organization.
